

Hospice is care you can trust

Hospice care is one of the most trusted parts of the U.S. healthcare system, supporting patients and families with care, comfort, and guidance at home.

Nurses, aides, and a full care team coming to your home

Support for caregivers, including time to rest and recharge

Help with medications, equipment, and supplies related to care

Someone you can call anytime, day or night

Care focused on comfort, not more hospital visits

Grief support for families, even after a loved one has passed

Hospice is care you can trust

Hospice care is one of the most trusted parts of the U.S. healthcare system, supporting patients and families with care, comfort, and guidance at home.

Hospice is for...
People who are very unwell and are not expected to get better

Hospice is for...
Families and caregivers who need support and guidance

Hospice is for...
Anyone who needs care focused on comfort, not cure

Hospice is care you can trust

What are some unique services
from hospices?

A Voice for Every Faith

Chaplains and spiritual counselors are available for every patient, regardless of religion or belief. Quality hospice supports the whole person, including their spiritual needs.

Honoring Veterans

Many hospices have special programs just for veterans, including pinning ceremonies and volunteers who are veterans themselves. It's a way to honor their service and say thank you.

Help Around the Clock

A nurse or care team member is available by phone 24/7, even overnight. Families never have to face an urgent question or crisis alone.

Hospice is care you can trust

What Hospice Really Is (vs. What You've Heard)

Not Just for the Last Days

Myth: Hospice means someone is about to die any moment.

Fact: Many patients receive hospice care for months. More time in hospice is often better for patients and their loved ones!

You Keep Your Doctor

Myth: Starting hospice means giving up your other doctors.

Fact: Your hospice team works alongside your regular doctors, not instead of them.

It's About Living, Not Just Dying

Myth: Hospice is only about helping people pass away peacefully.

Fact: Hospice focuses on comfort and quality of life, helping people live as fully as possible for as long as possible.